Development work has been in progress for the last six years, and more than 10,000 feet of shafts, drifts, levels and cuts have been completed and paid for by the owners. Upwards of fifteen million tons of ore are now ready for the mill all of which will be mined by open cuts at a nominal cost.

A contract has been entered into for the erection of a mill and cyanide plant capable of handling 1,000 tons of ore daily, which will be completed this year. The directors guarantee that this plant will be placed in operation, regardless of the amount of treasury stock subscribed. The net profit after commencing operations will exceed $60,000 s month, and purbably reach $100,000 a month, within a year. The ore in sight will supply such a plant for more than forty years.

Noted Outlaw Captured.

The Fayetteville Observer contains an account of the capture by Sheriff Burns, Deputy Monaghan and special deputies Watson and Ingold of Alex. Gilmore, the notorlous Cumberland county outlaw who has been accused of hundreds of crimes and convicted of many. Gilmore was captured at the home of a negro in Cedar Creek where he was dragged from under a bed, offering no resistance at all against the heavy odds. He has been in the penitentiaries of both North and South Carolina several times but has always made his escape shortly after his incarceration. The last crime for which he is wanted is the burglary of the house of Mr. Frank McDaniel in Fayetteville.

NO PARTY LINES.

While the Presidents Life Hangs in the Balance Remarks Col. Bryan.

Lincoln, Sept. 9 .- Colonel Bryan in his Commoner, under the caption of "The Nation Mourns" discusses the assault on the President. He says in part:

"Beneath the partisanship of the individual lies the patriotism of the citizen, sometimes dormant, it is true, but always active in hours of peril or misfortune. While the President's life hangs in the balance there are no party lines. Atlanta, Ga., May 12, 1891.

Why Mr. Hardeman had a policy in the MANHATTAN LIFE.

Maj. Jos. H. Morgan, Special Agt. Atlanta. Dear Sir: - As agent of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company of New York, it affords me pleasure to say to you that my father was insured in your company, and by reason of the late war, he was unable to reaca your company and pay his premiums as they fell due; and that Ly. after the cessation of hostilities, my father having died during the war, your company have paid to my mother the amount of his policy less the amount of premium unpaid. Yours Truly, (Signed) R. U. HARDEMAN, State Treaturer.

And this was not an isolated case by no means. So soon as the civil war was over the Manhattan announced that the company was ready to communicate with the old policyholders, inviting them to reinstate their policies, making one condition only, that the policyholders should be in good health. Such an act of generosity was unthought of by any other company Ar or corporation.

Knowing that their Southern policyholders were most of them, men who had made every sacrific possible for the land that they loved, and hat had been reduced from affluence to poverty, they offered, in lieu of ready money to accept a note covering the entire premium during the time that payments had lapsed. In addition to that they placed these policies on the same footing of other policies of the same date, in regard Ar to dividends and and annuities. The company went even further: In cases where the insurer was the policy during these troublesome times, the Manhattan agreed to pay the purchase value of the policy as it stood on the date of the lapse from the non-payment of premiums Although the Manhattan has made no boast of this act of generosity, which was not followed by other Northern Companies, "on the ground that the disloyalty of Southern policyholders vitiated their contracts," still it remains on record that the Manhattan was true and steadfast, honest and equitable, when all others forsook the old soldlers in the time of their direst necessity.
